PCHS Alumni Night, January 4

The annual Pendleton County Schools' Alumni Night and Reception will be held on Friday, January 4. This event will be held at Pendleton County High School in conjunction with the Wildcat basketball game. That evening PCHS will take on Montgomery County.

Alumni of all Pendleton County High Schools are invited to attend the games as well as visit the Alumni Reception. The Alumni Reception is hosted by the Pendleton County Education Foundation and Alumni Organization. The reception will be open from 6:30 p.m. through the third quarter of the varsity game and will be held in the office lobby near the gym.

There will be a special recognition between the JV and varsity games the 50th Anniversary Class of 1963 of both Falmouth High School and Pendleton County High School as well as the Pendleton County High School 25th Anniversary Class of 1988. This event also features the Alumni Band.

Alumni of Butler, Falmouth, Morgan and Pendleton County are invited to attend. An opportunity to meet with the ALUMNI Page 9

Another year has passed and we want to take this time and this space to extend a big thanks to all of our loyal subscribers and our faithful advertisers for being there for us week after week. We look forward to serving you in 2013 and wish you a Happy New Year! From the Staff of The Falmouth Outlook

School Board urges Congress to stop harmful budget cuts

Federal education programs face more than an eight percent budget cut next year unless Congress intervenes; and, the Pendleton County School board has adopted a resolution urging Congress to stop these across-the-board cuts that would have a detrimental impact upon the school district.

The across-the-board cuts to federal education programs that benefit the Pendleton County school district would occur under a process called sequestration (defined as the cancellation of budgetary resources) that was enacted under the Budget Control Act of 2011. For Pendleton County Schools, a budget cut of 8.2 percent in federal funding would mean larger class sizes, fewer course offerings, less access to intervention programs, summer school and after-school programs, less extra-curricular activities, and teacher/staff lay-offs.

Nationwide, sequestration would cut education funding by more than $4 billion, and would affect the Pendleton County school district's budget by more than $130,000 at a time when states and local governments have very limited capacity to absorb further budget cuts.

Shop With A Cop fun for children and officers

By Debbie Dennie, Editor

Each year the Pendleton County Sheriff's Office takes several disadvantaged children shopping and then to a free pizza dinner at Edwardo's Pizza and Subs in Falmouth.

The sheriff's office has a couple of fundraisers a year to help raise money for this project and they also receive donations from individuals and businesses.

Law enforcement officers from the Kentucky State Police, Butler

Police Department, Falmouth Police Department, Pendleton County Jail and deputy, along with the sheriff's office gather at the office. Each child, sometimes two, are sent out with the officer shopping. The children get to ride in the cruisers and of course the blue lights are flashing.

This year that annual shopping trip was held on Thursday, December 20, 2012.

Pendleton County Chief Deputy Sheriff Todd Dennie thanks all those individuals and businesses that gave donations. "We also want to thank Eric Love, Edwardo's and the staff for all that they do. Edwardo's always donates the pizza and refreshment for the party," said Dennie. "We also want to thank all the law enforcement officers for coming out and donating their time for this project."

Students facilitate Sharp Production of Annie, Jr.

The Pendleton County GATES program fosters service-learning as a way of helping students to extend their boundaries, learn more, and use their talents to serve others. Service-Learning is a teaching and learning strategy that integrates meaningful community service with instruction and reflection to enrich the learning experience, teach civic responsibility, and strengthen communities.

A very theatrical PCHS service-learning endeavor has just gotten underway as high school students are working together to help showcase middle school talent through a production of Annie, Jr. The production will be directed by high school students Clay Knight and Julia Holland while costuming will be created by Christine Philpott and choreography by Sarah Tackett. The sets and props will be created by Maya Lustenberg, Makayla Reed, and Sydney Utz. Former PCHS student and current UC student, Brett Price, who wrote and directed last year's middle school dinner theatre has agreed to act as co-general manager with GATES teacher, Michelle Lustenberg. Middle School chorus teacher, Debra Holland will be playing piano and band teacher, Ian Insko, will be working with the mics and the sound board for this production.

The high school students have all been involved in drama, music, and art activities through KRT, PC Band and Choir, and the GATES program throughout the years. Now they are being challenged to use these talents in a leadership position. The students have ANNIE, JR. Page 9

JANICE AND DELMAR MOORE

Moore's celebrate 53rd anniversary

Delmar and Janice Moore of Melbourne, Florida, formerly of Falmouth, celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary on Wednesday, November 7. The happy couple were married in Falmouth in 1959.

Delmar is the son of the late Larry and Ada Moore and Janice is the daughter of the late Frank and Wanda House.

From their 53 year union were born two sons, Mike and Mark. They also have three grandchildren Hannah, Jacob, and Amber.

"We love you and are so proud of you. Have a Happy New Year and may God bless you both! Lots of love from the family!"

Carlene England Carr received the title of Kentucky Colonel in honor of her 100th birthday. Falmouth Mayor Mark Hart presented her with a framed certificate in recognition of the occasion.

Carlene England Carr turns 100!

Falmouth Mayor Mark Hart recently presented Carlene England Carr with the title of Kentucky Colonel from Governor Steve Beshear on the recommendation of Senator Katie Stine. Also received was a resolution passed by the Kentucky Senate. The momentous occasion was in honor of her 100th birthday.

Carlene England Carr was born November 9, 1912 in Bracken County to Silas and Viola Teegarden England. As a young girl her family moved to Pendleton County where she graduated from Falmouth High School in 1933. She married Icelly Carr in 1934 and became a farmer's wife.

She is the mother of Alma Ruth Moore (Don), grandmother of Barry Moore (Linda) and Becky Sargent (Darryl), and great grandmother of Chris Moore. She is also the sister of Donald England and the late Naomi Simpson Turner and aunt, great aunt and great-great aunt to many.

After retiring from farming, she and her husband ran a farm supply business, Pendleton County Mills in Falmouth, before going home to the country.

She currently resides alone in her own home attended by her loving daughter. She is a fine Christian woman who is an inspiration to all who know her.

Her birthday was celebrated on November 11, 2012 where she was surrounded by her loving family and friends. She had a wonderful day and thanks all of those who came to pay their respects.

Henry Agnew and Nancy Cummings were married in Pendleton County on January 3, 1843.

Love and Dean named Honorary Lifetime Boy Scouts

Eric Love, manager of Edwardo's Pizza and Subs, and Jeff Dean, Pendleton County attorney, were bestowed the distinction of being named Honorary Lifetime Boy Scouts by Marion Courts, Scout Leader of Troop 806 on Monday, December 17. The two received framed awards from Courts and his troops for their many contributions to the Boy Scouts. "I can't say enough about these two men," said Courts. "Whenever we need something or have an event going on, they are among the first to step up and lend us a hand. Pendleton County and the Boy Scouts are lucky to have them as part of our community." Before the presentation, Troop 806 enjoyed a pizza party compliments of Edwardo's. Pictured above from left, Eric Love, Marion Courts, and Jeff Dean are shown after the award presentation. Santa Claus pays a visit to Story Hour Christmas Party

Story Hour at the Pendleton County Public Library had a Christmas Party on Friday, December 21. Santa Claus stopped by the library to see the children. They sat on Santa's lap and told him what they wanted for Christmas. Santa told the children stories while they enjoyed snacks. Everyone had fun! Story Hour is for children ages 3-5 years old. There will be no Story Hour until we are moved into the new location in February at 801 Robbins Avenue. Watch The Falmouth Outlook or the library's website for specific dates and more information. If you have any question, feel free to call 859-654-8535.

PENDLETON COUNTY LOCAL CALENDAR OF EVENTS

Waist Management, January 8

It's that time of year again, when we indulge in lots of sweets, carbs, and holiday fixings. To counteract our holiday weight gain, we are preparing for the third annual Waist Management Competition. The competition will begin on January 8. All participants are required to fill out a registration form and pay an entry fee of $20. Entry fees will be used as prize money for competition winners. Each Health Center will have a weigh in site and Brittany Noe will weigh in participants at the District. If you are interested in participating, please give your application to a Community Health Team Member.

Smoking Cessation Program, Jan. 30

The Cooper Clayton Smoking Cessation Program will be held at the Pendleton County Health Department from 7 - 8 p.m. on Wednesday, January 30. Nicotine replacement products will be provided for FREE for those that attend the class.

A notice of love and gratitude

The Norman Family, our daughter Tammy Gore and granddaughter Brittney Gore are searching for words good enough to thank the owners and staff of Randy's Clothing and Falmouth Christian Church for their wonderful generosity in all the precious gifts and love they gave so freely to Tammy and Brittney. While our resources are limited, Tammy and Brittney would have had all the love this family can give them on our Savior's birthday, but they had no idea that total strangers would give so freely of their Christian love and God-given resources. Tammy escaped from an abusive marriage shortly before Thanksgiving and both her and Brittney really needed the joy and happiness your love and gifts are giving them. Thank you all so very, very much. God will bless both Randy's Clothing owners and staff and Falmouth Christian Church with great love and prosperity of witness and wealth. In fact I wish to thank any church, person, organization or group that gave gifts of Christian love and gifts of joy to any needy family or person all over the world. God's magnificent and unlimited blessing on everyone on this our Lord and Master's birthday.

UCAN provides $15 dog spay/neuter

UCAN provides $15 Dog spay/neuter surgery, rabies vaccine and free transport to Pendleton County Residents.

To decrease the number of homeless dogs, United Coalition for Animals (UCAN) is pleased to provide Pendleton County residents with spay/neuter surgery and a rabies vaccine for $15 per dog and free transportation from 1311 Shelby Street (Subway) in Falmouth to its non-profit, low-cost spay/neuter clinic in Cincinnati's Queensgate area.

The special pricing is courtesy of Northern Kentucky's Friends of the Shelter.

The first transport is January 22, 2013. Please call UCAN at 513-762-0135 to make an appointment on the transport. Check-in is at 7 a.m. on transport days. Dogs will be returned to the same location the following day at Noon. Monthly transports will be provided as long as there is a demand. Future transport dates will be posted on UCAN's website, www.ucancincinnati.org, or residents can call 513-762-0135 for a schedule.

UCAN is located at 1230 West Eighth Street, Cincinnati,

OH 45203 just outside downtown Cincinnati.

UCAN is an Ohio non-profit, 501(c)(3) charitable organization formed to end the unnecessary deaths of healthy and treatable cats and dogs in shelters in the Greater Cincinnati area and surrounding counties. Over 70,000 puppies and kittens are born each day in the U.S., over half of which are "oops" (unintended) litters. As a result, every year, millions of cats and dogs end up in shelters and over 4 million of them are euthanized. UCAN was formed to stop this cycle. Spay/neuter is the simple solution - sterilizing cats and dogs means fewer unwanted animals being born and therefore few animals being surrendered to shelters and euthanized. UCAN offers free transports to its clinic from several locations in Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana, including from Batavia, Hamilton, Hillsboro and Middletown in Ohio; Burlington and Williamstown in Kentucky; and Batesville and Richmond in Indiana. For more information, visit www.ucancincinnati.org, or call (513) 721-7387.

FALMOUTH BAPTIST
Happy New Year from the Falmouth Baptist Church. It is our hope that your New Year's resolution includes a desire to plug into the light of Christ. We invite you to join us as we strive to grow closer to, and to serve Him better in 2013.

Christmas Sunday brought a full house and hearts full of love. We were blessed to have Bob Morgan with us singing "O, Holy Night" and then the choir presented a beautiful selection titled "What a wondrous gift."

Bro. Cohen's message was about that wondrous gift of Jesus. It's the bread of life, the light of life, the Holy Spirit, and it's wisdom and understanding to know who He wants us to be. Thank God we have a reason to celebrate, not just at Christmas, but everyday.

We invite you to join us for a community prayer service at 7 p.m., Sunday night, January 6.

FIRST BAPTIST
Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to all! Bro. Harry and the Crozier family lit the last Advent Candle of the season.

We were blessed with several Christmas specials from the following: Tammy Moore, Chris Tomlin, Jeremy Moore, Abram Crozier, and Adam Crozier. Bro. Harry then read the Christmas Story from the book of Luke. Afterwards we observed the Lords Supper.

At the close of our services we had a candlelight service and all joined in singing, "Let there be Peace on earth."

Pray for the lost, the sick, those who have lost loved ones and our military.

"Don't pack Jesus away with your Christmas decorations!"

MT. MORIAH
We wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year 2013! Time does not stop, it goes by too quickly! How will you start your new year of 2013? Will it be running to and fro after wealth, success, fun, adventure, with no thought for the true meaning for your life? God created each and everyone of us with His plan and purpose in mind, we are not a mistake!

Why would He create each human with a thumbprint and eyes that no one on this planet Earth can match?

"Choose you this day whom you will serve...but as for me and my household, we will serve the Lord." God's Holy Bible from Joshua 24:15. Something to think about for your life this New Year 2013! God bless you.

NEW ZION
Come join us for worship and fellowship! Sunday school starts at 10 a.m., morning worship at 11 a.m. and evening worship starts at 6:30 p.m. Bible study is on Thursdays at 7 p.m.

Upcoming Opportunities: There is a WMU and Deacon's meeting at 6 p.m., January 6; there will be a business meeting at 12:30 p.m., January 13th; and evening worship will start at 5:30 p.m., January 20 with the Men's Soup Cook-Off to follow at 6:30 p.m.

Have a great new year!
"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." II Corinthians 5:17

Remember in prayer Peggy Mains, Tammy Tatum, Tom Bridwell, Bill Brown, Trenton Tursany, Gavin Cales, Tyler Meeks, Christopher Cummins, Opal Whitaker, Dean Larrison, Penny Moore, Juanita King, Margaret Adams, Heather Flynn, Christa Reckers, Niki Darling, Alice Thomas, Peggy Foley, Kenny Riley, Joe Bush, Angie Hemphill, the Adams, Clever, Ruf, Rudd, Frailey and Milton families and all of our men and women in uniform. Also remember to pray daily for our country and it's leaders.

OAKLAND CHRISTIAN
We pray everyone has a blessed New Year. We thank this newspaper and its great staff for always printing our articles, etc. They work hard so we are most appreciative.

Our Christmas service was very special. Our choir sang the cantata, "Mary, did you know?" We rejoice in seeing Evan Spicer baptized into God's family at Oakland.

Upcoming is our congregational meeting, at 5:30 p.m., January 13, with a soup and sandwich meal provided by the church board. The business meeting will follow.

Prayer concerns include Dorothy Skidmore, Adarin Williams, Zelma King, families of the Connecticut tragedy, Rena Carol Aulick Lynn, Bill Mitchell, Chris Wilson (UK), Julia Monroe, Eudell Hall, shut-ins, Donnie Moneyhon, Keith Petrequin (of Majestic Sounds Quartet), Shirley Merrill, Leslie Wolfe Jr, Bill Pettit, Margo Gibson, Geneva Morris, Hilda Angell, Stanley Bishop, cancer issues, our nation and its leaders and our armed forces (especially at this season).

TRINITY
Happy New Year! As you make your New Year's resolutions, don't forget to renew your existing or begin a new relationship with Jesus. Trinity concluded 2012 with another outstanding Christmas Eve candlelight service and completed our advent to help center our minds on the true reason for Christmas. Just as a new year is beginning, our music is having a new beginning with adding Ron Livingood as our interim music director. We are blessed to have Ron and Alane with us. Awanas, youth, and "Getting to know your Bible" study will all resume. If you are looking for some great fellowship or just looking to get closer to Jesus, then look no farther than Trinity to help you accomplish your mission. Everybody is welcome and there is always

The more you know about weather safety can help you be ready for snow

According to Dan Robinson, storm chaser and photojournalist, "Road icing is more likely to threaten your life than any other weather condition you'll ever face." Accidents due to winter road conditions account for twice as many fatalities as from tornadoes, hurricanes, lightning, and severe thunderstorms combined.

"Each and every one of us who drives a vehicle is in charge of our own safety," said Rob Hans, chief district engineer for the Northern Kentucky District 6 Office of the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet. "It's just this simple, drivers should be very cautious when traveling on wet or icy pavement."

"We are asking people to partner with us to make our roads crash-free," Nancy Wood, the district's information officer said. "During winter storm events, our maintenance workers do their part to fight adverse road conditions; we need you to do yours."

District 6 covers over 4,500 lane miles of highway and interstate pavement in the eleven counties: Boone, Bracken, Campbell, Carroll, Gallatin, Grant, Harrison, Kenton, Owen, Pendleton and Robertson. Crews are on duty 24/7 when there is a major weather event. However, just your everyday cold mornings and misty, rainy days are not major weather events, and do not call for chemical treatment of the roadways. Wood said, "Temperatures quite often are at or below the freezing mark all throughout the winter months, and it is simply unrealistic to expect that every spot of ice should be continuously treated with chemicals during these times."

Drivers can learn from information gathered by highway safety analysts. "There are things we can do to increase the likelihood that we will be crash-free drivers," said Wood. "They fall into two categories: vehicle hazards and road hazards."

Vehicle safety
• High speed. Loss of control occurs much easier at high speeds. For instance, in a recent study of crashes on US 42 in Gallatin County, almost every wreck over a two-year period had only one thing in common: each driver of the vehicle which caused the crash was driving faster than the speed limit. "Safety improvements such as high friction surface and curve 'softening' help drivers who stay within the speed limit," said Matt Bogen, a District 6 engineer for traffic and permits. "The Transportation Cabinet makes these type of enhancements to our highways to allow motorists to travel the road way safely at the posted speed limit."

TURNER RIDGE
"For unto us a Child is born, Unto us a Son is given..." Isaiah 9:6.

Our worship service focused on the demonstration of Love that God had for His people on December 23. The Advent candle of love was lit and the Lottie Moon Christmas offering was collected; money to show love and support for the missionaries spreading the word of God's love.

Brian Jenkins shared a piano special and Jim Tomlinson sang "Joseph's Song." Uncle Dale's childrens message explained "The best Gift" is Jesus. Preston Wright read scripture from I John 4:16-19 and Bro. Dale's sermon led our hearts to know the love God had by giving His Son. God didn't just say He loved us, He showed His love. To end the service the bells played "White Christmas."

The children presented their Christmas play, Sunday night, it was an amazing evening! As was our Christmas Eve service. We hope everyone has been blessed this Christmas season.

away from the vehicle in front of you.

• Water build-up on brakes. After driving through a puddle, brake rotors can become coated with water, which affects their ability to safely slow the car. To prevent this, you should lightly tap your brakes after each puddle to remove excess water.

• Windshield wipers. The most important factor that affects driver visibility in the rain is windshield wipers. Older wipers tend to become cracked and brittle, lasting only six months to a year in areas with frequent rain. However, wipers do not last forever even if they do not get much use. They can become brittle and warped by the sun, rendering them useless in heavy rain or snow. There are several indicators that wipers need to be replaced: windshield streaking, smearing, rubber that flakes off when touched, wiper screeching, and frayed wipers.

Road hazards

• Engine oil and grease buildup on pavement. Over time, grease and engine oil build up on road surfaces. When roads are dry, this is not a problem. However, when rain or snow start to fall, oil and grease come to the surface and rise above the water coating the road. This makes wet conditions even more dangerous. Although the oil and grease are washed away after a few hours of rain, those first few hours are critical.

• Crowned roads. Most roads are crowned, or built so the center of the road is slightly higher than the sides. The purpose of crowning is to allow rain to run off the pavement. However, any sort of debris or barrier along the shoulders traps water and prevents natural runoff. This creates puddles which can lead to hydroplaning and spray that can obstruct your view, and this is why District 6 maintenance crews spend so much time cleaning ditch lines.

• Groundwater and runoff. Temperatures can drop rapidly, especially during early morning hours. Any water standing on the pavement or running across a roadway can freeze into a thin sheet of ice that is nearly impossible to detect in advance. Puddles may splash water onto the windshield and obscure your vision.

Another danger of puddles is hydroplaning, when the tires lose contact with the road and instead ride on a pocket of water. This makes the vehicle hard to control as it loses traction with the road and affects steering, braking, or accelerating.

• Changing conditions. Weather conditions can vary even with small changes in elevation. Most often, air temperatures fall and rain changes to snow as you climb in elevation. However, a common meteorological condition called an inversion can result in the exact opposite. In our mountainous region, drivers should be prepared for rapid changes in road conditions.

"Driving is not as simple as it seems," said Wood. "Even the most quick-witted, experienced driver should realize he cannot drive on wet or icy roads at normal speeds. It is a hard lesson to learn if you wait until you slide into a guardrail or, worse, an oncoming vehicle before you realize that all the safety messages you've been exposed to over the years were important. Paying attention and slowing down can mean the difference between a safe arrival and not getting there at all. This is especially so during winter months when cold temperatures create ice on the roads even in the absence of a storm."

In Pendleton County, the District 6 maintenance crew is responsible for 492 lane miles of roadway. Crews have stockpiled 1,200 tons of salt and over 5,800 gallons of salt brine for de-icing. Eight trucks are available for snow and ice removal.

To view the priority route map for Pendleton County go to <http://transportation.ky.gov/Maintenance/Pages/Snow-and-Ice-Priority-Maps.aspx>

Wood continued saying, "The District 6 highway engineers and maintenance workers will continue to do everything we can to keep our roadways safe, but the bottom line is that each driver is responsible for his own safety when he gets behind the wheel. Even with all the safety measures we put into place, we have not yet invented a way to driver-proof a road."

SHELLEY MEYER, 4-H/YOUTH DEVELOPMENT

4-H Livestock Judging opportunities abound

4-H Livestock Judging is a great way for young people to learn more about the animals they love and learn valuable life skills, such as decision making and critical thinking, in the process.

One of the great things about livestock judging is you only need to have an interest in livestock to participate. Owning livestock or coming from an agricultural background are not participation requirements.

In livestock judging, young people learn about the various traits of breeding and market livestock, including hogs, beef cattle, sheep and meat goats. They see several animals and rank them based on how closely they meet the ideal traits and then give oral reasons for why they placed the animals in that order.

At the beginning of each calendar year, counties form livestock judging teams of interested 4-H'ers. Leaders group teams by age from Cloverbuds to senior 4-H'ers. Teams train and learn within their county and regional clinics with either a 4-H youth development agent or a Certified Livestock Volunteer.

In June, Kentucky hosts the State 4-H Livestock Judging Contest. The top senior level 4-H'ers at this contest are invited to attend Top 12 week in July. For a month, this group goes through intensive training about livestock judging in Kentucky and Indiana. From this group, eight are chosen to represent Kentucky as the 4-H All-Star Livestock Judging Team. Members of the 2012 team included Travis Drumm and Jacob Embry of Clark County, Renee Laurent of Caldwell County, Allison Tarvin of Bracken County, Jacob Barnes of Harrison County, Audree Harper of Calloway County and Adam Miller and Taylor Ray of Shelby County. This team travels and competes in 4-H Livestock Judging contests around the nation on the weekends in late summer. Top finishes this year included first place team finishes in the Swine Division of the Ak-sar-ben 4-H Livestock Exposition in Nebraska and in the Sheep Division at the Keystone International Livestock Exposition in Pennsylvania. Drumm was the top overall individual in the Sheep Division, and Embry was the top overall individual in the Beef Cattle Division at the Pennsylvania competition.

The top four members of the all-star team are selected as the Kentucky 4-H Livestock Judging Gold Team and represent Kentucky at the National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest held each November in Louisville during the North American International Livestock Exposition. Drumm, Embry, Laurent and Tarvin were members of the 2012 team.

More information on livestock judging opportunities are available through your Pendleton County Cooperative Extension Service.

Winter feeding areas for livestock

As we move closer to cold weather, it is a good time to think about strategies for winter feeding of livestock, since it is a necessary part of nearly all operations. Choosing the right place for winter feeding can improve production and reduce threats to nearby water resources. A poorly chosen site for winter feeding can have negative impacts on soil and water quality.

A significant amount of pollution can occur if winter feeding is conducted around streams, water bodies or other environmentally sensitive areas such as flood plains and creek bottoms. Storm-water runoff from these areas can carry mud and manure into nearby water bodies, creating water quality problems. If these contaminants can be traced to a specific operation, the owner could be subject to fines from regulatory agencies.

To reduce water pollution and avoid fines, producers can follow a few simple steps. First, place winter feeding areas in well-drained locations. These areas should not allow runoff containing mud and manure to drain into neighboring properties, streams or sinkholes. The farther away a feeding area is from surface or ground water resources, the less likely water pollution is to occur. Next, producers should consider using confined winter feeding that allows cattle to access a structure or paddock for feeding and then return to a larger forage pasture. Smaller "sacrifice" pastures reduce the area damaged from winter feeding and can be used as central hubs for multiple pastures as part of a rotational grazing system. By placing water and mineral supplements away from the structure, cattle will be enticed to eat in the structure and then move out and away. The volume of manure will be easier to manage because the animals will spread it throughout the fields.

Finally, heavy-use area pads around winter feeding areas can greatly reduce mud and rutting from tractor and hoof traffic. These pads are constructed using geotextile fabric, crushed stone and dense grade aggregate.

By making these considerations for winter feeding of livestock, producers can greatly reduce the potential to contaminate water resources and can improve production.

Reducing stress in military families during the holidays

Kentucky has a large number of military families—active duty, Reserve and National Guard, racking up at least one family in every one of Kentucky's 120 counties. While all families find the holiday season full of different pressures, from time management and gift-giving to travel and relationships, military families can find it particularly stressful.

Families might have a spouse who is deployed, so the partner at home has to fill that person's shoes within the family. It can be an overwhelming feeling—the need to do more, alone, and to make the holiday great for the kids while one parent is away. Military families also face great uncertainty, often sustained over several years, several moves and several deployments. Children can also feel the strain at the holidays. They may feel isolated, especially if they are the only child who has a deployed parent. It's important that they feel like they belong and they are understood.

Isolation

One way to prevent feelings of isolation is to increase activity with supportive group events. Military families should actively seek fun, supportive activities at the holidays, both with military and non-military families. Local extension offices and other groups throughout the state provide events throughout the year, such as family fun days, which usually coincide with the holidays and provide a way for military families to get together. Often, other military families lend a sense of immediate community, but any holiday event that brings families together is valuable in counteracting feelings of isolation. Church, school and civic events, such as ice skating, caroling, holiday performances and special worship services, can also add comfort and community.

Thoughtful gift-giving

Choosing emotionally meaningful gifts is a powerful way to connect with loved ones who are far away. Photographs, for instance, are tangible reminders that connect the recipient to home, family and events. University of Kentucky extension offers a mobile technology lab that is loaned out for military events during the year, and it sees the highest number of requests during ing holidays. The mobile lab specializes in providing children with constructive activities, many of which translate perfectly into holiday gifts for deployed family members. Photo gifts are just one example of the lab's end products, proving that the most important gifts are not always the most costly.

Travel

Holiday travel is highly stressful for any family, but for military families, the issues are compounded. They may be separated from extended family by distance; they may have trouble organizing travel alone; or they might not be able to afford lengthy or expensive travel. In these cases, military families may end up being alone, which can exacerbate feelings of isolation, stress and worry.

If travel is impossible, one way to ease this situation is to choose an activity entirely different than the family tradition. Try going out to dinner, taking in a movie or spending the day with close neighbors so travel isn't needed. Moving away from family traditions opens the opportunity to enjoy new things and prevents a close comparison to years past.

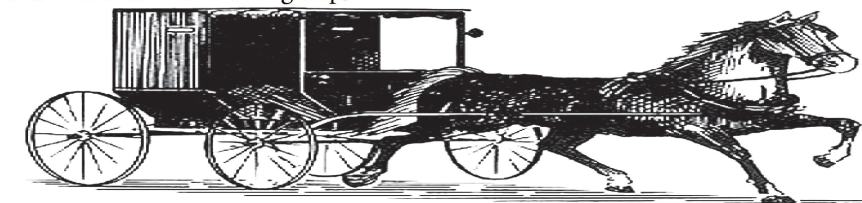

Transitions

It's important to keep in mind that a military person's presence at home does not automatically indicate that everything is okay. Military personnel may be wounded, suffering from post-traumatic stress disorder, or waiting for the next deployment. Coming home, or preparing to leave, can be a very difficult transition for all family members.

The holidays can be very trying, but it can make things easier if a support system is in place, including friends, family, neighbors, colleagues, as well as other military families. Remaining flexible—about plans, traditions, expectations—will help everyone in the family enjoy the season. Last, this holiday might be different, but it can offer a chance for your family to show love toward one another.

Wednesday evening and supper is over. Everyone went their own way, some reading, some writing, and some still down with the flu. Yes, the flu bug hit us. So far it has only been on Benjamin and my husband, Joe. Their symptoms were a high temperature, cough, aches, and chill. I called the doctor and he said their is not much they can do. So I am playing nurse and trying to keep their temperatures down and trying to keep them comfortable. I hope it stays away from the rest of us. Joe is caught up at work so he is off work until after New Year's Day. It was a good thing that he did not have to leave as he woke up with a temperature of 102. I hope he will be better to enjoy his birthday which is Saturday the 22nd. This will make him 44 years old already.

Last night we had an easy supper of eggs, toast, and cheese. Verena fried the eggs and Loretta made the toast so I got out of helping with supper. We have eggs, eggs, eggs around here. After the holidays I hope to make noodles with a lot of them. Elizabeth arrived home safe and sound from their trip to Kentucky. It is always nice to know when everyone is back home again. Christmas is coming up fast and I still have not signed any cards. Seems I get later every year in getting them out. Tomorrow night is the elementary Christmas program at the school. Joseph, Lovina, and Kevin are excited about it. Friday will be a 1/2 day of school. Sounds like we have some snow and wind expected for tonight. There might be a possibility that there will be no school Friday. I remember one year on our way home from the school Christmas program it snowed a lot. It was hard to find our way home with the fresh snow covered roads in the dark. The next morning school was cancelled but the children were disappointed because so were their parties.

We were surprised with Christmas carollers one night. Was some of the families from our church. They had a team of horses and a hay wagon to take them from one place to the next. A group of people stood outside on our porch and sang Christmas carols.

This is now Thursday morning and it is raining and very windy. It is the first morning all week that Benjamin woke up without a fever. He said he feels lots better. It is hard to keep him down when he is sick. He had a 104 temperature one morning and was walking around. It doesn't take much of a fever to put me in bed. I just never could walk around with a high temperature. Today I want to bake bread and make something for Elizabeth to take something to the factory for the carry in on her line. Didn't realize I didn't have too much yeast on hand so make I won't get to bake as much as I thought. I will close this column wishing you a blessed Christmas. Those of you who travel may you arrive back safely. Also: get well wishes to all the people with illnesses, may you have a complete and speedy recovery. And last, but not least, let us remember the families in Connecticut during this sorrowful time. Such a tragedy. May God be with them.

Census countdown begins for America's farmers/ranchers

America's farmers and ranchers will soon have the opportunity to make a positive impact on their communities by taking part in the 2012 Census of Agriculture. Conducted every five years by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS), the Census is a complete count of all U.S. farms, ranches and those who operate them.

"It is important that all tobacco, wheat, corn and soybean growers, Kentucky cattle farmers, dairy farmers and ranchers respond," says Georganne Witse, NRCS District Conservationist. "Census information is our voice and helps us to shape our farm future."

"The Census remains the only source of uniform, comprehensive agricultural data for every county in the nation," said Renee Picano, director of NASS's Census and Survey Division. "It's a critical tool that gives farmers a voice to influence decisions that will shape the future of their community, industry and operation."

The Census looks at land use and ownership, operator characteristics, production practices, income and expenditures and other topics. This information is used by all those who serve farmers and rural communities from federal, state and local governments to agribusinesses and trade associations. For example, legislators use the data when shaping farm policy and agribusinesses factor it into their planning efforts.

"Your answers to the Census impact farm programs and rural services that support your community," Picano said. "So do your part and be counted when you receive your form, because there's strength in numbers that only the Census can reveal."

In 2007, U.S. farmers reported over two million farms, spanning across more than 922 million acres. This showed nearly a four percent increase in the number of U.S. farms from the previous Census in 2002. These new farms tended to have more diversified production, fewer acres, lower sales and younger operators who also worked off-farm. This telling information and thousands of statistics are only available every five years as a direct result of farmer responses to the Census.

NASS will mail out Census forms in late December, to collect data for the 2012 calendar year. Completed forms are due by February 4, 2013. Producers can fill out the Census online via a secure website, www.agcensus.usda.gov, or return their form by mail. Federal law requires all agricultural producers to participate in the Census and requires NASS to keep all individual information confidential.

For more information, visit www.agcensus.usda.gov. The Census of Agriculture is your voice, your future, your responsibility.

At The Close Of Another Year

Before the clock strikes the final hour, I resolve to give you my very best wishes for a fabulous and fun-filled year. I'm really grateful for the time I've had to represent you this past year and look forward to many more. May I extend my sincere wishes for a Happy New Year to my friends, neighbors and district members.

KENTUCKY ADULT EDUCATION LEARNING FOR LIFE

Income tax season approaching, tips for college students

Income tax season is approaching, and students may want to consider these tips from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) to help the process go more smoothly.

Although you may not have earned enough to be required to file, you may get a refund if your employer withheld taxes from your pay. Before you file, discuss the tax situation with your parents. Depending on how much they contributed to your upkeep during the year, they may be able to claim you as a deduction on their tax returns, which could save them thousands of dollars. Students and parents may be able to take advantage of these programs on their federal taxes:

- American Opportunity Credit, available for the first four years of college.
- Lifetime Learning Credit, available if a taxpayer or a dependent is taking college courses to acquire or improve job skills.
- Tuition and fees deduction, which lets taxpayers deduct qualified education expenses paid during the year for themselves or a dependent. The expenses must be for college.
- Student loan interest deduction, which lets people deduct up to $2,500 per year on federal taxes for interest paid on federal student loans.

For more detailed information about federal programs, go to www.irs.gov to download the free Publication 970 Tax Benefits for Education.

Kentucky also offers a tuition tax credit for undergraduate students who attend state colleges.

Remember that tax rules may change from year to year, so make sure you have the most up-to-date information before filing.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's grant and scholarship programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). It provides financial literacy videos at <http://itsmoney.kheaa.com>. KHEAA also provides free copies of "It's Money, Baby," a guide to financial literacy, to Kentucky schools and residents upon request at publications@kheaa.com.

To learn how to plan and prepare for higher education, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov.

1/4: Alumni Night, Wildcats vs. Montgomery 7:30 p.m.
1/5 - 1/6: PC Cheerleading Competition - All day

Wildcats beat Huntsville in Classic; Monroe moving up

By Bruce Reller, Jr., Reporter

The Pendleton County High School Wildcats finished with one victory and two losses in the Smokey Mountain Classic in Gatlinburg, Tennessee on December 20-22.

The Wildcats lost to Miami Senior, Florida 61-41 on Thursday, December 20 and then, they lost to Elizabethtown, Tennessee 88-80 in a close game on Friday, December 21. "Elizabethtown is a nice team. They were 7-2 going into the tournament," PC head coach Ed Cravens said. "They were a hot shooting team. We made four or five mistakes, and they capitalized. It was a game we should have won."

However, the Wildcats did defeat Huntsville, Alabama on Saturday, December 22 by the score of 62-46. Huntsville had won the tournament last year, so it was a huge win for Pendleton County.

"We were more focused and ready to play. The kids rose to the occasion," Cravens explained. "We rebounded the ball well and put pressure on them. We shot the ball well that day. The kids are starting to acclimate to traveling."

Wildcat senior Mason Monroe finished the game with 1,820 career points, and he is the second leading scorer in the Pendleton County history.*

The Wildcats improved to 6-5 overall with the victory over Huntsville. Pendleton County also played Oak Hills, Ohio last Friday, December 28. Statistics were unavailable as of press time.

Pendleton County will play two games this week. The Wildcats will travel to Bracken County this Wednesday and then return home this Friday to face Harrison County on Alumni Night. Both games will be played at 7:30 p.m.

* Note: Monroe's career total of 1,820 points does not officially make him Pendleton County's all-time second leading scorer. Due to lost records, Bobby Wyatt's career total for points is listed at 1,800+ so it is still debatable about who is actually second on the list. Monroe should easily surpass the record this season.

Wolfe leads Ladycats in second half rally past Fillies

In their holiday tournament, the Edwardo's Christmas Classic, Pendleton had lost an opening game against Grant County in which they didn't play their best basketball and had struggled with a Covington Latin team they had blown out earlier in the season. Now, they trailed a Harrison County team 21-17 at the half. A Fillies team that had a 1-8 record after losing to both Grant and Latin. The Ladycats looked out of sorts and not sure what they needed to do.

That's when senior leadership of the team had to step up, put the team on their shoulders and will their team to victory. Exactly, what Senior Ashten Wolfe did against the bitter 38th District Rival.

"I thought Ashten really played well and controlled some situations," Coach Scott Collins commented about his senior's play. "She is very ball smart and we talked about some things during the game and she executed everything I asked to a tee. Her leadership on the floor is very important to our team as our younger players mature."

Pulling an old play out of the coaching textbook, coach Collins went to his bench to start the second half and brought in Taylor McClanahan, Tori Fitzpatrick and Bailey Wanstrath while changing the offense to a guard-oriented, five-out attack the basket mindset. Something that Ashten excelled. She was constantly hitting the lanes, driving to the hole, getting fouled, dropping off a pass to a teammate or hitting the basket. She scored three points in the third when they turned the 4-point halftime deficit to a 7-point lead at the end of the third quarter and nine points in the

The victory gave the Cats a second place finish in the Edwardo's Christmas Classic.

After falling behind in the second quarter, PC exploded in the second to take a 31-22 halftime lead over Covington Latin. But Latin battled in the third and made the game competitive. In the fourth, neither team could score as Pendleton went for five points on 1-8 shooting from the free throw line while Latin could only muster three points.

Taylor McClanahan led the Cats with 13 points off the bench that was matched by McKayla Manor's 13.

Coach Scott Collins said about Tmac's play, "She showed up to play and was looking to make moves and scoring off the dribble as well as posting. On the boards, she was exploding to the ball and pulling down some key rebounds."

The JV dropped both of their games in the Edwardo's Christmas Classic with a 41-28 loss to Grant County and a 39-36 overtime defeat to Harrison County.

Bailey Boden led the Cats versus Grant County with 11 with three 3-pointers while Bailey Wanstrath was about all offensively the Cats could muster against the Fillies. She ended with 22 points. Amberly Purdy had seven points before leaving in the third quarter with a knee injury. Pendleton plays in the Bourbon County Holiday Tournament after Christmas but final results were not available at press time. In 2013, they will be traveling to Beechwood on January 3rd for a rare freshmen/varsity doubleheader.

Cuts

local community has made in recent years, there is simply very little, if anything else, left to cut," said Superintendent Anthony Strong. "Any further cuts in education funding could adversely affect the quality of our education programs. For example, some of the courses and programs that could be eliminated or curtailed would include Title I, Title II, Special Education, middle/high school vocational schools, pre-school, & W.I.A."

The resolution adopted urges Congress and the Administration to amend the Budget Control Act to mitigate the drastic cuts to education that would affect our students and communities, and to protect education as an investment critical to economic stability and American competitiveness.

Currently, bipartisan negotiations are underway in Congress to develop an alternative to sequestration. The Pendleton County School Board's resolution indicates the community's awareness of this critical issue and is being forwarded to members of Congress to urge their support to avert the sequester.

Below is copy of the resolution: WHEREAS, a world class public education is essential for the future success of our nation and today's schoolchildren; and

WHEREAS, the Budget Control Act of 2011 includes a provision to impose $1.2 trillion in across-the-board budget cuts to almost all federal programs including education that would become effective January 2, 2013; and

WHEREAS, these across-the-board budget cuts would impact school districts during the 2013-14 school year, with the exception of the Impact Aid program, with which a reduction would become effective this school year; and

WHEREAS, these across-the-board budget cuts, also known as sequestration, would impact education by a reduction in funds of 8.2 percent or more and could result in larger class sizes, fewer course offerings, possible four-day school weeks, loss of extracurricular activities, teacher and staff lay-offs, reduction in programs such as Title I, Title II, Special Education, middle/high school vocational, pre-school, & W.I.A.; and

WHEREAS, sequestration would impact almost every public school system in the nation and the millions of students educated through programs such as Title I grants for disadvantaged students, the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), English Language Acquisition, Career and Technical Education, 21st Century Community Learning Centers, and more; and

WHEREAS, Pendleton County Schools, as well as other public schools, would be impacted nationwide by an estimated $2.7 billion loss from just three programs alone - Title I grants, IDEA special education state grants and Head Start - that serve a combined 30.7 million children; and

WHEREAS, federal funding for K-12 programs was already reduced by more than $835 million in Fiscal Year 2011, and state and local funding for education continues to be impacted by budget cuts and lower local property tax revenues; and

WHEREAS, states and local governments have very limited capacity to absorb further budget cuts from sequestration, as Pendleton County Schools has already implemented cuts commensurate to state and local budget conditions;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that Pendleton County Schools urge Congress and the Administration to amend the Budget Control Act to mitigate the drastic cuts to education that would affect our students and communities, and to protect education as an investment critical to economic stability and American competitiveness.

Shouldn't surgery?

AAOS
AMERICAN ACADEMY OF ORTHOPAEDIC SURGEONS
Patient safety is no accident.
aaos.org

A new procedure is in place to help prevent errors in the operating room. It's called Sign Your Site. Before any surgery, the doctor signs the correct spot on the body where an operation is to occur, while the patient watches and verifies. Orthopaedic surgeons have been advocating it for years. Now, even more doctors are doing it. Visit aaos.org to find out more, because when it comes to surgery, there's no such thing as being too cautious.
